ACHC and TAHC&H Renew Partnership

Cary, NC - Accreditation Commission for Health Care (ACHC) announces the renewal of its partnership with Texas Association for Home Care & Hospice (TAHC&H), an organization that champions the collective interests of the Texas home care and hospice industry.

"It gives all of us at ACHC great pride to partner with an organization like TAHC&H," said ACHC Business Development Manager Ryan Ragan. "Anyone unfamiliar with their level of advocacy for home and hospice care should look no further than their outstanding Integrity One Program. It's high ethical standards, like those encompassed in that program that have made them respected on both a state and national level."

The partnership renewal allows TAHC&H and ACHC to continue to work together to deliver the best resources to Texas home care and hospice agencies, organizations, and individual professionals. TAHC&H members also are eligible for special pricing on ACHC Accreditation for home health, hospice, and private duty services, as well as discounts on educational resources that help providers prepare for accreditation.

"As the statewide trade Association for Home Care and Hospice Agencies, we seek out partnerships with organizations, such as ACHC, that share our values of ensuring the highest quality home care and hospice services through programs that emphasize compliance, ethical practices, and quality," said Rachel Hammon, Executive Director.

Founded in 1969, TAHC&H's mission is to advocate for ethical practices, quality, and economic viability of licensed providers in Texas. Through its Integrity One program, TAHC&H provides information and reporting resources to home care and hospice members that help maintain high standards of ethics, integrity, and accountability.
